Campus lands a home

West Sacramento

Los Rios Community College officials announced on Thursday that they had completed a long-awaited land purchase of 2.5 acres on West Capitol Avenue across the street from the civic center. The site will become the permanent campus of the West Sacramento branch of Sacramento City College, which is now housed in smaller, leased facilities on Halyard Drive.

The current campus serves 1,500 students. The expanded branch will include 10,000 square feet of classrooms and labs, with the potential to expand to 80,000 square feet. It is expected to open in the fall of 2007.

Los Rios purchased the land for $1.5 million from RAMCO Enterprises, reports the district.

The college district serves 75,000 students in four colleges – American River, Cosumnes River, Folsom Lake and Sacramento City. It plans to build new centers in Davis, Rancho Cordova and Elk Grove as well as West Sacramento.

Local school fights to meet state test score standards

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Westfield Elementary School in West Sacramento is one of four schools in the Sacramento region to face the consequences of the federal "No Child Left Behind" Act, for consistently failing to meet goals in student test score improvement. But the superintendent of Washington Unified School District said yesterday that some of the more extreme alternatives for Westfield – closing it down, hiring private management or turning it into a charter school – probably will not happen.

The state is forcing the consideration of such changes in the wake of the north-area school's poor performance in language arts and mathematics.

"My understanding is that those options (such as privatization) are not viable at this point," said Patrick Campbell, superintendent of Washington Unified School District. Campbell said that a task force has been formed to create a discussion of alternatives between the district and parents of Westfield students.

"They are looking at a couple of options," he reported. "Option One is to have two schools there, based on a grade-level split into a 'primary' and an 'intermediate' school. The split would be at kindergarten through second or third grade. Option Two is to have two K-through-6 schools there with separate programs. The school site stays the same, but the programs are separate."

Either change, said Campbell, would break the 600-students school in two, and create closer relationships between students and staff.

"What we're trying to go for is to create 'small learning communities,'" added Campbell. "Smaller is better, so you can focus on the kids and the kids don't get lost. You have stronger support for teachers, and more accountability for staff. The main thing it does is bring us better relationships between teachers and the learning communities, parents and staff."

The "smaller learning communities" concept is the same idea being pursued at the district's planned new high school campus.

Westfield Elementary (north of Poplar Avenue and West Capitol Avenue) has a high percentage of non-English speaking kids, primarily Hispanic, and a shortage of involved parents, Campbell said. But he added that some schools with similar problems nevertheless succeed.

"If we have parents who can't help their kids with homework and can't come to school to help out, isn't it in the district's best interests to reach out and educate them?" he asked. "80 percent of these families have not graduated from high school, so you have a low education level there. How can we reach out to the community and make sure that literacy and math education are happening?"

Campbell said the district is sponsoring a literacy effort for the families that surround these kids.

David Farmer, the school board president of Washington Unified, said he also is not looking at the consequences of more substandard test scores – consequences which could include school closure.

"I would like to maintain the positive view that we're putting in the resources and we should be making some improvement," said Farmer. "If we start making improvements, It shows that whatever intervention we're doing is having an effect."

Superintendent Campbell was asked if a family moving into West Sacramento would be in trouble sending its children to Westfield, as opposed to a school in a more educated and affluent neighborhood such as those of Southport Elementary or Bridgeway Island.

"No," he answered. "When you have a standard courses adopted, standard curriculum, standard textbooks – the one thing you have is consistency. When you have kids come into school with different educational background, parents and teachers do have to approach it more intensely than you would at Southport or Bridgeway."

'Having fun while helping others'

Lauren took home first place honors and will now advance to the Area Level Competition, which will be held on March 9th in Sacramento.

Volunteers go back to class

The "Adopt-A-School" program sponsored by the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce and the city's Rotary Club has been a success this year, reports Rotarian Charyl Silva, a local chiropractor.

Rotary has worked with Westfield Elementary School for the past two years, providing community volunteers to assist teachers. Next year, the program will move to Bryte Elementary, where an expanding volunteer list will help with tutoring, math, homework, sports and the repair of students' bikes.

One teacher from Westfield praised her "Adopt-A-School" volunteer, Katia Loza.

"It is my pleasure to have Katia in my second grade Alternative Bilingual classroom program," she said. "She helps students build upon their comprehension skills in our 'open court' reading program. Katia is truly an asset in my classroom – besides being a volunteer, she is a role model to my class, a role model that represents our minority group of students."

Proposal goes to court:

Yolo fights Woodland auto mall

The County of Yolo is at odds with the city of Woodland over the city's plans to place an auto mall near the intersection of County Road 102 and I-5.

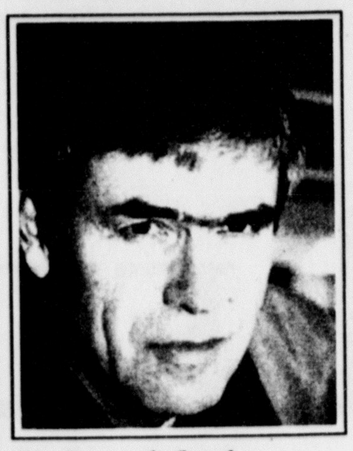
The county has filed a "Petition for Writ of Mandate" in Yolo Superior Court, challenging the environmental impact review conducted for the auto dealership center.

The county cited the loss of prime farmland and other factors in its objections to the project.

The auto mall is slated to take up about 77 acres.

Is it un-American to skip your high school reunion?

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

About a month or so ago I received in the mail an official invitation to attend my high school graduation class's 40th year reunion. At first I thought that a couple of my old classmates from West Sacramento's James Marshall High School (now called River City High School) Class of 1965 had gotten together like they had in the past and organized another little get-together. But on closer examination, I discovered that a company calling itself Class Encounters was actually in charge of the event, and that it was going to cost a pretty penny to attend.

To begin with, to purchase one reunion ticket cost $80 (discounted to $72 if I bought it right away). And it was also highly recommended that I buy a bio/memory book for $20, a class photo for $18, and a class T-shirt for another $18. Each reunion ticket did include a "Taste of Tuscany Buffet", whatever that is, but even so, the total came to $136, and that didn't include tax and handling charges. To their credit (so to speak), they did say they would accept Visa, MasterCard, Discover and American Express.

On closer examination of my invitation, I learned that a more formal invite would soon be in the mail to me (once they had received payment) and that the attire for the event was "casual to dazzle", a pretty scary thought all by itself. Anyway, having long ago promised myself that I would never again attend another high school class reunion (I was more or less dragged to my 20th or 25th, I can't remember which), I put away my colorful (it even had a snarling James Marshall wildcat on the cover) eight page invitation booklet and didn't give it another thought.

That is, until this past week, when three different former classmates of mine have asked me if I was going to attend our class reunion. And when I told each of them "no", they all suddenly got the very same expression on their face -- like I had just said something un-American, and that maybe I was a closet communist or something.

"But why not?" one asked in amazement.

"Well," I tried to explain, "since I have always lived in West Sacramento, most of the people I liked in high school still live nearby, and I can see them any old time I wish. Plus, to tell you the truth, the four years I spent in high school were not exactly the best four years of my life."

I have often asked myself why so many people seem to look back on their high school days with such affection and nostalgia. I mean, has everyone totally forgotten how unkind most everyone was to each other, how the nastiest of rumors could spread like wildfire, how a mistake on the athletic field or a bad grade on a hated geometry test could be a matter of life and death, and how you had to hunt high and low to find a teacher who would actually encourage you and your dreams?

Maybe it's some kind of group amnesia thing, but I even remember reading a quote once that went, "The friends of our youth leave footprints on our hearts, and we are never the same again", which is indeed a wonderful sentiment, but if I remember my high school days correctly, the friends of my youth (especially the girlfriends of my youth), who left footprints on my heart, did so by stomping on it good and hard a few dozen times. So, as the years have gone by, I have more or less chosen to think back on most of the people I went to high school with like I chose to look back on most of the guys I served with in Vietnam -- they mostly all had a beginning, middle and end in my life, and I am perfectly comfortable with things remaining that way.

"But what's not to love about going to a high school reunion," demanded one of my classmates who couldn't believe I didn't want to attend.

"Well," I said, "for starters, the one overriding question which seems to be on everyone's mind at those things is how everyone looks -- are they fatter or balder or uglier than you remember. And then when you realize you are thinking the same exact thing, you can't get your head around the fact that in terms of looks, everyone has more or less flip-flopped."

"Flip-flopped?" asked my friend.

"Yeah, haven't you ever noticed at reunions how everyone that was considered good-looking back in high school has somehow fallen apart, while everyone who was once considered butt-ugly now looks great? It's like the gods have played one big joke on everyone and I always feel like I'm the only one who sees the humor in it."

Nope, I think this society's love affair with high school reunions mostly has to do with our shared wish that we could all somehow be young again, when (in the words of a great Les Miserables lyric), "We were young and unafraid, when dreams were made and used and wasted, when there was no ransom to be paid, and no wine was left untasted."

And come to think of it, I guess there's nothing really wrong with that -- if it doesn't cost $136.

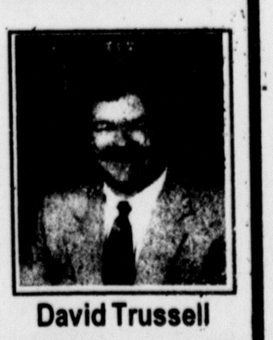
'The rest of the story'

Why you would create an 'impound account'



DRE Lic. #01010462

David Trussell

When you want to have your taxes and insurance part of your monthly payment, how does that work? Well you have to first have to determine what is going to be included in your "impounds", (traditionally they are comprised of your property taxes, home owners insurance, and maybe principle mortgage insurance; PMI).

Always your taxes and insurance are paid forward, so you are insured they are paid in advance. Your property taxes are paid twice a year, (Dec., and April), and your homeowners insurance is paid annually. So when we create your impound account we are doing just that, "creating." We have to calculate what your property taxes are, divide by twelve, and then impound for the rest of the months until your next tax bill is due. Depending on the month that you close escrow is significant because each month of the year poses a different "impounding" amount. Your home owners insurance is paid annually, so typically what happens is your old insurance is prorated to the date we close escrow, you then pay the full amount of the new premium, then you add about two months or extra reserves into the impound account. PMI works in many ways the same as homeowners insurance.

So when you refinance or purchase a home, and you are creating an impound account, just remember that you are paying forward all your accounts so that there is always enough to cover your taxes and insurance. At the end of the year, however, most lenders audit all there impound accounts on behalf of all their clients and reconcile their books. In some cases you can be entitled to a refund of overpayment of impounds. Use extreme caution when you get this check. Call your lender right away -- sometimes a lender has sent a refund, then called the next month saying they must raise your impound amount. Usually this happens when either your taxes or your homeowners insurance has increased.

Runners hit local streets in Sunday's half-marathon

Organizers expect a thousand runners to participate in the inaugural "St. Patrick's Half-Marathon and 5km" race on Sunday, March 13, beginning at Raley Field. The runners' courses will take place solely in the city of West Sacramento.

Presented by Fleet Feet Sports Sacramento and by New Balance, the event will benefit the American Stroke Association, a division of the American Heart Association.

The 13.1 mile half-marathon begins at 8 a.m. and the 5 kilometer (3.1 mile) run/walk starts at 8:15 a.m. The course is described as "flat, fast and scenic," looping through The Rivers subdivision and along the Sacramento River. The course will finish inside Raley Field, and finishers will be shown on the stadium's large screen. Post-race, there will be a fitness expo, refreshments and entertainment. Parking is free.

The half-marathon is open to walkers as well as runners, and the course will be open for 3.5 hours (a 17 minute per mile pace). Competitive runners will compete for a $500 prize with merchandise awards for division winners. All runners will receive a colorful long-sleeve T-shirt.

"We think this race will be popular right away as it fills a gap in the local running schedule," said Pat Sweeney, owner of Fleet Feet Sports Sacramento. "There are a lot of runners and walkers who want to challenge themselves with a longer event or might be training for a spring or summer marathon."

Entry fee is $35 for the half-marathon or $20 for the 5K, if registered early. Visit www.ffsac.com/stpatricks or Fleet Feet, 2311 J St. in Sacramento.

Good start for River City tennis

Despite injuries, illnesses, and the graduation of 11 of last year's regular varsity players, the River City High School tennis team is off to another good start in 2005. The Raiders played their first three matches on the road and came away with wins against Calaveras, Bear River, and Amador. They then followed up with a victory over Bret Harte in the home opener.

Against Calaveras, RC was led by the singles play of #1 girl Vu Tran and #2 boy Jordan Balluch and the doubles team of Brian Koell and Ou Saejao (#1 boys), and Pa Yang and Anna Bouttavong (#1 girls). In the win at Bear River, #1 boys singles player Judd Jadol won handily 10-1, while Balluch (#2) and Koy Saetern (#2 girl) each won their singles contests 10-3. Doubles wins came from Koell and Saejao, Ajay Patel and Brandon Yip, and Lu Saetern and Kristina Michener.

The win at Amador was highlighted by Jadol's 8-0 triumph in the top boys singles match, Saejao and Yip's 8-0 victory in boys doubles, and Tran's 8-3 win at #1 girls singles. In the home contest against Bret Harte, Jadol and Tran again took the top singles matches while Randi Eckman returned from injury to post a come-from-behind 10-9(5) win in the #2 girls singles position. Ou Saejao teamed with Lu Saetern for a close 10-8 win in boys doubles and Koy Saetern paired with Kristina Michener to rout their opponents in girls doubles.

After a non-league match against Lincoln, the Raiders will open Capital Valley Conference (C.V.C.) action tomorrow at home against Rio Linda. Other upcoming home matches include one versus Argonaut this Friday, and a conference tilt against Highlands next Tuesday. All of these matches begin at 3:30 p.m.

River City has won nine straight league championships, including C.V.C. titles in 2003 and 2004.

Two found dead

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Two individuals were separately found dead in West Sacramento, although neither fatality appears to involve foul play.

On March 5, a dead man was found in a vehicle near Pine Street. The discovery was initially treated as "suspicious," and led to an investigation.

"He was found in a vehicle in the rear parking lot of the Pine Street Apartments, but all indications are it was natural causes or a possible drug overdose," said Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department.

Police did not want to release the identity of the 33-year old West Sacramento man pending notification of relatives.

Monday at about 11:40 a.m., a person was found dead at the Old Town Inn, 826 West Capitol Avenue. That death appeared to be natural causes, said Farmer, as "there were no signs of foul play."

The identity of the deceased was likewise not available.

WUSD moves project completion of high school to Fall of 2008

West Sacramento's school district has moved back plans to open a new high school by one year, to fall of 2008. The move has been in the works for the past few months, after successful passage of a high school bond measure in 2004 and initial plans to create a new campus by 2007.

"I think 2008 is realistic," said David Farmer, president of the school board of Washington Unified School District. "Sometime this March, escrow should close on the second piece of property needed."

A year ago, local voters approved a $52 million bond measure for the new high school, planned to house up to 3,000 students at a southern city location near Jefferson Boulevard and Linden Road. The district has since contracted to buy nearly 100 acres to make the campus a reality.

But it is still working on trying to buy a handful of homesites -- most occupied -- where the planned campus fronts Jefferson Blvd. at Higgins, which is the location of the district's preferred entrance to the new campus. WUSD officials have contacted landowners to see if they are willing to sell.

Farmer was asked by the News-Ledger if the district had plans to use the legal process of "eminent domain" to force the owners to sell.

"We've never said that," he replied. "We really would like to work with those who would like to sell their homes. They're kind of 'landlocked' (by the campus) and we're concerned about the school's impact on them. If they choose to stay, that's another issue. It's a really touchy issue when somebody's talking about taking somebody's home away from them."

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Yet another example of the strange evolution of language: The word "fastidious" originally meant "something disgusting."

• Rod Serling is best known as the creator, writer and producer of the TV series "The Twilight Zone," which first aired in 1959. It seems he was also quite witty; he's the one who made the observation, "It is difficult to produce a television documentary that is both incisive and probing when every 12 minutes one is interrupted by 12 dancing rabbits singing about toilet paper."

• Those who study such things — whoever they are — claim that a single 28-ounce jar of Jif peanut butter contains 1,218 peanuts.

• After its release, "Lawrence of Arabia" won many film awards and was one of the most popular movies of its time. Considering how many people saw it, it seems strange that few people notice that during the entire film — which runs three hours and 36 minutes — there is not a single line spoken by a woman.

'Across the Bridge':

Events around the West Sacto region

St. Patrick's Day parade

On March 17th, the historic district of Old Sacramento will come alive with the wearing of the green for the Annual St. Patrick's Day Parade. This year's parade will feature costumed marchers, living historical characters, horse drawn carriages, school bands, and much more. The 6 p.m. parade is a free family event and part of a festive day where food, music and fun will be served in generous quantities in Old Sacramento.

Walk with Jesus

St. Mark's United Methodist Church is presenting a Jerusalem Marketplace and Walk with Jesus on March 20th from 12:30-4:30 p.m. at 2391 St. Mark's Way in Sacramento (behind Country Club Mall at Watt Avenue and El Camino). Nearly 100 church members, dressed in period costume, will play roles in the marketplace and the Walk with Jesus presentation. For information, call 455-8733.

POLICE LOG

March 2, 10:05 a.m.

Around 12:05 a.m. on Feb. 25, a 22-year old Sacramento man and two unidentified accomplices assaulted a victim at Evergreen Avenue in West Sacramento, using a club. The victim suffered trauma to the face and head. The suspect also phoned the victim and threatened to "pop" him. The suspect was arrested March 2.

March 2, 9:05 a.m.

Officers recovered a stolen 1991 Acura Integra that was abandoned in front of an Andrew Street home.

March 2, 4:37 p.m.

Police recovered an abandoned 1995 Mustang which had been stolen and then left at Solano and Lisbon. Shortly thereafter, they recovered a stolen 1991 Honda Civic from Bryte Avenue.

March 2, 10 p.m.

Officers saw a 19-year old man outside on 6th Street after 10 p.m., in violation of a curfew injunction against his gang. The man was jailed.

March 3, 12:35 a.m.

Suspects broke into a business through a window at Sacramento Avenue, stole items, and fled.

March 3, 10:15 a.m.

An officer arrested a man who reportedly tried to strike a victim inside a vehicle with a metal pipe. In the incident on Franklyn Way, the suspect broke the windshield of the victim's car with the pipe and repeatedly tried to hit people inside.

March 3, 1:52 p.m.

On Harbor Blvd., an officer arrested a man who attempted to pass a forged $435 check at a check-cashing business. The man was found in possession of other forged checks – for which an extensive investigation was necessary to determine the checks were indeed forged.

March 3, 3:16 p.m.

On Sunset, officers were called during a reported residential break-in in progress. They found a back door open, and then found a suspect hiding under a bed. The suspect was jailed.

March 5, 11:32 a.m.

A woman reported her 50-year old father missing after he got out of her car and told her he was going to hitchhike to Alaska.

March 5, 12:53 p.m.

On Douglas Street, a burglar kicked in a side door at a residence and stole a CD player and a motorized scooter.

March 5, 8:48 p.m.

Four male suspects in a Ford Thunderbird brandished a handgun at a victim on Hardy Drive, in a possible road-rage incident. No arrests were immediately made.

March 5, 9:12 p.m.

On the 1600-block of West Capitol Avenue, someone broke a car's rear windshield and stole a pair of porcelain dolls worth about $20.

March 5, 11:17 p.m.

Officers were dispatched to a dispute involving neighbors. When they approached an apartment door, they heard a voice on the other side say, "I will shoot through the door." They backed off and created a perimeter.

The suspect obeyed orders to come out and surrender.

March 6, 2:09 a.m.

On Orchard Way, an unidentified woman forced her way into a vacant apartment with a crowbar, and later left without taking anything. There was property inside the apartment.

OPINION

Letters to the Editor

Museum opening: success

Sunday, February 20, 2005, was a day to remember. This day was the Grand Opening of the West Sacramento History Museum, located in Old Town Broderick. The building, on loan from the City of West Sacramento, was a local watering hole known as the Broderick Cafe. Volunteers from the society worked many long hours in re-modeling the now museum, and turned the old building into a needed showplace for the city. The opening was a great success, with more than 200 people attending, many of them residents of West Sacramento, as well as out of town visitors, on hand to reminisce, while viewing the artifacts on display, and greeting old friends and relatives.

Hats off to Lana Paulhamus, the Interim Museum Director, and her hand working committees, that made the museum happen. Hopefully, the city council will soon open the doors to the old Washington Firehouse that sits vacant across the street from the museum, so that the society can have a permanent home for the museum. Through the cooperation of the city's redevelopment agency, the city can turn that historical building into a real showplace that will become a visitor destination, and for all residents to enjoy for years to come. The city realized that the old firehouse was worth saving, so should bring it back to its original brilliancy before it deteriorates any further. Many historical buildings in the West Sacramento area have been destroyed by the bulldozer in the past, giving developers the opportunity to continue to destroy much of our history.

Support AB 1328

Please do support Lois Wolk with this bill to protect part of Cache Creek. She is a smart lady who is seeing farther into the future than some others locally.

Yolo County has so far been spared the kinds of commercial development pressures suffered by most other parts of the Central Valley, and it has been possible to manage the land conservatively through personal responsibility and personal agreement. That is about to disappear. We need to take advantage now of all means available, including state and federal classifications, to protect vulnerable places before it becomes too late to do so.

Yes, farmers want water, more water. Everywhere everyone wants water, more water. But the American West does not have enough of it to satisfy all wants, and has never had it. What it has now is all there will be, no matter how cleverly we try to move the stuff around. With AB 1328 water is not a genuine issue.

New tax revenues will help police and fire

Ikea furniture is hoping to open in November, 2005, Wal-Mart's superstore plans to open in the summer of 2006, and Home Depot wants to open in the fall of 2006.

Once plans are submitted for those anchor stores on Reed Avenue across from KOVR Channel 13, remaining space can then be allocated for other businesses.

Since the above three businesses will be very visible by eastbound I-80 traffic, potential success should attract other businesses and many of us hope that a Home Town Buffet (which offers diabetic-friendly soft drinks) will join them.

Sales tax revenues from these businesses should easily cover not only adequate expanded public transit for our northwest city, but also for expanded police and fire protection, including approval of pending contracts for police and fire staff.

Remembering a friend

I lost a true friend, Richard Dugrenier, on February 27th, and felt compelled to take not of his passing. He wasn't a close, go bowling, fishing, or to the races type of friend, but he was always there if I or my son needed him. In fact, he was always there to help, as many of his extended family (blood and adopted), as well as numerous friends and satisfied customers will attest. He had an unpolitically correct, rough, prickly manner about him, as numerous public officials will no doubt confirm. However, he was also right far too often for their comfort. His work ethic was a throwback to an earlier age, ie: his automotive repair shop didn't open until 9 and closed at 5, yet he was always up before dawn; out to the ranch slopping hogs, feeding chickens and doing such chores as he could before he took a short break for doughnuts and coffee before going to work, back to the ranch, and then home.

Somehow he still found time to go out of his way to help people in need. He's perform minor (and not so minor) repairs or other services for his regular customers for little or no money because that's just the way he was. He took time and made a place in his life to try and steer his kith and kin through the rough waters of life. He was a dutiful son, spending Sundays visiting his mother, wither at her home or taking her for outings and dinner. He unconsciously set an example just by living, not preaching to do this or not to do that.

If one could learn anything from his life, it would be: If you're right, stand up. If you're wrong, admit it. Don't be afraid of hard work or helping others, it'll make you better. It made him "Rich."

401(K) accounts are better

Today's young workers express skepticism about Bush's plan for private accounts. Why? Because millions of young workers are already in 401(K) plans with their companies. Their contributions will follow them into retirement. Plus their Social Security benefits will be there when they reach 65!

So why is the American public so disenchanted with the idea of private accounts within the Social Security program? Because Americans in 2005 are fully aware that every young worker has access to a 401(K). My daughter, who is 24, has had a 401(K) with her company for the past four years. This was her choice with her own money without any interference from the White House or at the expense of the taxpayers.

Why aren't the Republicans talking or debating the access into 401(K)'s for young workers as an option instead of the disaster they're currently proposing?

"Pooh's Heffalump Movie"

Running time: 63 minutes
MPAA rating: G

Something scary is afoot in the Hundred Acre Wood. What could it be?

Rabbit knows. It's a Heffalump, the most frightening creature in the world.

So, Pooh, Piglet, Rabbit and Tigger summon up their courage and head off on an expedition to Heffalump Hollow to capture the beast.

Little Roo, the baby kangaroo, wants to join the hunting party, but is told that he is too young for such grown-up endeavors. Needless to say, he is the one to discover the Heffalump, who turns out not to be a fearsome creature, but a roly-poly, lavender sweetie named Lumpy.

Lumpy has also heard strange noises in the Hundred Acre Wood, and as he describes the fierce creatures, we realize he's talking about Pooh, Tigger and the rest of the gang.

The film has great lessons about courage, friendship and how while it's normal to be afraid of people who may appear different from us, ultimately we all share the same fears — and joys.

"Pooh's Heffalump Movie" is a cute, fun (albeit extremely short) film that will delight preschoolers and their adult Winnie-The-Pooh fans. Lumpy is a wonderful addition to the cadre of characters we've all grown up with and loved for decades.

My only criticism about this movie is its look and feel. While watching it, I felt like I was simply watching a made-for-video release being projected onto the big screen. There isn't anything "cinematic" about the film that would warrant it being on the big screen.

Little Roo joins the posse.

When I got home, I did a little research and found out that the film was originally a direct-to-home video release, but Disney decided it was worth giving the movie a theatrical shot. This also explains why the film is barely an hour long.

Still, it's a very small, niggling point, and it really doesn't detract from the film's entertaining aspects. If you have small children, "Pooh's Heffalump Movie" is a perfect way to spend an afternoon at the movies.

Beef Tamale Pie

This family-friendly dinner takes just 25 minutes to make.

- 1 log (16 ounces) precooked polenta, cut crosswise into 8 slices
- 1 package (17 ounces) fully cooked beef roast au jus
- 1 can (14 1/2 ounces) diced tomatoes with green chiles
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1/2 cup loosely packed fresh cilantro leaves
- 1 cup frozen corn kernels
- 1/2 (8-ounce) package shredded Mexican cheese blend (1 cup)

1. Preheat broiler. Place polenta slices on cookie sheet. Place cookie sheet in broiler at closest position to source of heat and broil 10 to 12 minutes or until polenta is golden on top.

2. Meanwhile, drain beef jus into 12-inch skillet. Add tomatoes with their juice and chili powder; heat to boiling over high heat. Boil 4 to 5 minutes or until sauce thickens. While mixture boils, shred beef with 2 forks. Coarsely chop cilantro.

3. Stir frozen corn and beef into tomato mixture; heat through. Remove saucepan from heat; stir in all but 1 teaspoon cilantro. Arrange polenta over beef mixture; sprinkle with cheese and remaining cilantro. Cover skillet; let stand 2 minutes or until cheese melts. Makes 4 main-dish servings.

• Each serving: About 380 calories, 30 g protein, 34 g carbohydrate, 14 g total fat (8 g saturated), 3 g fiber, 97 mg cholesterol, 1,800 mg sodium.

Tip: to add something fresh and crunchy to the menu, serve with carrot and celery sticks or a chunky iceberg lettuce salad.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On March 26, 1920, "This Side of Paradise" is published, launching 23-year-old F. Scott Fitzgerald to fame and fortune. Fitzgerald was named for his ancestor Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

• On March 24, 1934, the debut of radio program "Major Bowes' Original Amateur Hour" launches a national craze among amateur performers hoping to hit the big time. Some 10,000 people a week applied for the show, which pitted the performers against each other.

• On March 25, 1957, France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg sign a treaty in Rome establishing the European Economic Community (EEC), also known as the Common Market. The European Community would become the basis for the European Union (EU), which was established in 1993.

• On March 27, 1964, the strongest earthquake in U.S. history, measuring 8.4 on the Richter scale, slams southern Alaska. Fifteen people were killed or fatally injured as a direct result of the three-minute quake, while the ensuing tsunami killed another 110 people along the Pacific coast.

Q. I understand they're doing a sequel to the "Mork and Mindy" series. My question is, will Robin Williams and Pam Dawber appear to reprise their roles (as Mork and Mindy) or will other actors play them? — JoEllen B.

A. Actually, the NBC production will not be a "Mork and Mindy" sequel or remake of the original 1970s series. Instead, it will be a behind-the-scenes telefilm entitled "Behind the Camera: The Unauthorized Story of 'Mork and Mindy.'"

Like the earlier "Behind the Camera: The Unauthorized Story of 'Charlie's Angels,'" this film will provide a look at how the show began, what problems were encountered before and after its on-air debut, and how the powers-that-be handled its success and, later, how they tried to bolster its sagging ratings with some questionable decisions. The film will also show how Williams, after years of struggle, dealt with his newfound fame. Chris Diamantopolous ("American Dreams") will play Williams, and Erinn Hayes ("Significant Others") will play Pam Dawber.

Q. On "Law and Order: Criminal Intent," is producer Dick Wolfe planning to replace Vincent D'Onofrio (Detective Goren) by bringing in Christopher Noth ("Sex and the City")? — A Vincent D. fan

A. Christopher Noth joins the show in his old "Law and Order" persona of Detective Mike Logan, who, if you may remember, was sent to a precinct in Staten Island after offending some big politicos. According to Wolfe, et al., Logan will be part of the investigation team, and will not replace D'Onofrio.

There is some talk, however, that Wolfe acted to help lift some of the pressure on D'Onofrio, who, essentially, carries the show, and has had some bouts with exhaustion this season, and reportedly collapsed at one point.

Vincent D'Onofrio

As for Noth, who has been enjoying great professional successes after his "L&O" stint, he once told me that no matter what he's done or will do, "I want to keep Mike Logan alive and get a chance to play him again from time to time."

Q. Now that "NYPD Blue" is ending its run, has anyone said what the cast will be doing? — Marla J.

A. I understand they all have offers on their respective desks, but the only definite and immediate answer I have is for Gordon Clapp (Medavoy) who — as I write this — is in rehearsals for a new Broadway production of "Glengarry, Glenn Ross." Previews will start on April 8 at the Royale Theater in Manhattan, with an official opening in May. Others in the all-star line up include Alan Alda and Jeffrey Tambor.

TUNING IN by Sally Stone

A Conversation With Ron Reagan

"Connected Coast to Coast" airs weekdays on MSNBC at 12-1 p.m. EST and again at 5-6 p.m. The program is hosted by best-selling author and political analyst Monica Crowley ("The Monica Crowley Show," ABC Radio) and Ron Reagan ("20/20"). MSNBC political analyst, writer and television journalist. Dr. Crowley appears from her Washington, D.C., base, and Reagan from Redmond, Wash.

"Connected Coast to Coast"
MSNBC
Weekdays

Ron Reagan says he's often asked if growing up in a political family (his dad, of course, was President Ronald Reagan) influenced his move into political journalism.

"And I tell people that all of us, one way or another, are influenced by politics. Politics is part of everyone's life, whether it's a decision by a school board that affects your child's education, or a zoning law that determines where you can or cannot build something. ... And, of course, every time you vote, you're taking part in the political process.

"But, I suppose, more than most people," Reagan continues, "the fact that my dad was the governor of California and the president of the United States probably gave me more of an insight into how things are done in the political arena."

Reagan's co-host on "Connected Coast to Coast," Monica Crowley, also has a political background that includes working as a foreign-policy assistant to President Richard Nixon and a Ph.D. in international affairs.

"I can't think of anyone else I would want to work with on this show," Reagan says. "No matter what we talk about — foreign affairs, social security, censorship, whatever — I love hearing her views, although I'll probably disagree with most of them.

"As you probably guessed, she's on the more conservative side, and I'm the liberal. But what we have in common," he adds, "is a sense of humor."

Reagan noted that if he could legislate one thing about human behavior, it would be that everyone have a sense of humor.

Asked how he handles people who can't quite believe that the son of the late Republican president could be a liberal, Reagan says, "What I learned from my dad was that your politics should come out of your conviction that you're doing the right thing for the right reason, and not out of some ideology. ... (For me) I feel more comfortable with the more liberal views of the issues."

Ron Reagan says he doesn't see the show as becoming a battle between the right and the left viewpoints of its co-hosts.

"What Monica and I might say about something reflects how we feel about it. And while you might find one of us more persuasive on one issue, you may find the opposite is true (on another)."

Ron Reagan and his mother, Nancy Reagan, are supporters of embryonic stem-cell research and its potential for curing many diseases, including Alzheimer's, from which the late president suffered.

Asked if he plans to push his support for the research on the show, Reagan says, "It bothers me that something that could save lives has become a matter of political ideology. And if the (issue) comes up (on the show), I will continue to make people aware that this is not a matter for the politicians."

Would Ron Reagan ever run for political office?

"I don't think anyone will ask me," he chuckles.

"But seriously, I think I can make helpful contributions ... doing what I'm doing now," he says. "And isn't that what our politicians should be doing: concentrating on how they can make people's lives better?"

In Focus

The multi-award-winning Bebe Neuwirth ("Cheers") stars as Assistant District Attorney Tracy Kibre in NBC's new "Law and Order" series, "Law and Order: Trial by Jury." Others in the cast include Amy Carlson ("Third Watch"), Kirk Acevedo ("Band of Brothers") and Fred Thompson ("Law and Order"). The fourth in the "L&O" franchise focuses on the legal process from arraignment to trial, as seen from the points of view of the prosecutors, the police, the defendants, defense attorneys, judges, jurors and others.

Bebe Neuwirth

A longtime fan of the "L&O" shows, Neuwirth says viewers will find the new series "especially fascinating."

"Unless you're actually part of the system," she says, "you don't really get to know what's going on behind the scenes ... (but) with this show, you do. You see how the defense forms its strategy, how the attorneys talk to their clients, how the prosecution moves step by step, how juries are chosen — and how every aspect eventually comes together to form a case."

Bebe Neuwirth started her career onstage, largely in musicals, where she won awards for her spectacular dancing. I once asked her why many dancers — like Fred Astaire, Leslie Caron, Rita Hayworth, Gene Kelly and Jennifer Lopez, for example — so often become fine dramatic actors. She said that in order to be a good dancer, you have to be a good actor: Only instead of using your voice, you communicate your emotions with your body.

"So," she pointed out, "by the time you get to speak lines, you've already learned a lot about acting."

DIAL TONE: On March 29 (check local listings), the PBS series "NOVA" will air "Wave That Shook the World," tracing the forces that created the tsunami that struck Indonesia, Thailand and other areas of Southeast Asia with such deadly force on Dec. 26, 2004.

Swing Into Spring

Spring can't get here soon enough as far as I'm concerned! Garden beds are eagerly waiting for me to plant my beloved flowers, and my husband is getting itchy to start mowing our lawn again. But by putting this easy lemonade on the menu, we'll just have to wait until Mother Nature allows the "real thing" to arrive!

SPRINGTIME LEMONADE

- 1 (tub) sugar-free lemonade mix
- 6 cups cold water
- 2 cups diet lemon-lime soda
- 2 cups fresh strawberries
- 8 mint leaves

In a large pitcher, combine dry lemonade mix, cold water and diet soda. Pour 2 cups of mixture into a blender container. Reserve 8 whole strawberries. Coarsely chop remaining strawberries. Add chopped strawberries to mixture in blender container. Cover and process on "Liquefy" for 45 seconds or until mixture is smooth. Pour blended mixture into pitcher. Mix well to combine. Evenly pour into tall glasses partially filled with ice cubes. Garnish each glass with 1 reserved strawberry and 1 mint leaf. Serve at once. Serves 8.

• Each serving equals: 16 calories, 0 g fat, 0 g protein, 4 g carb., 6 mg sodium, 1 g fiber; Diabetic Exchanges: Free Food.

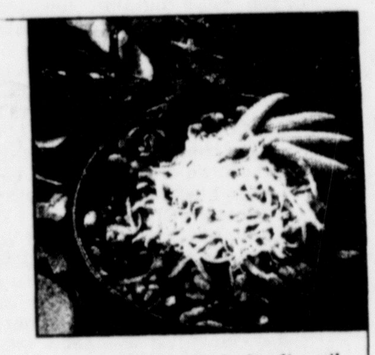
MOLE SAUCE ADDS SPICE TO MEXICAN CHILI



Mole (pronounced MO-lay) is probably Mexico's most noted sauce. You've seen it on menus, usually describing a chicken dish. It's perhaps a surprise when first experiencing mole to be told that the rich color and taste come from chocolate. But believe me, this is no confection, being usually flavored with a variety of chili peppers.

We've tamed down our Mexican Chili Mole by using chili powder, which you can use to taste, a sweet Italian balsamic vinegar and sweet Jarlsberg cheese, Norway's Swiss-type export. Use the regular or lite version with equally good results.

For this chili we're using red and white kidney beans for a nice color effect. Have on the table garnishes such as chopped red and green bell peppers, chopped red and white onion, whole baby corn, etc.

Incidentally, a tablespoon or so of this chili makes a tangy topping for hot dogs and hamburgers.

MEXICAN CHILI MOLE

- 1 tablespoon Lucini premium select extra-virgin olive oil
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 2 celery stalks, chopped
- 3 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 (16-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 1/4 cup Lucini's Gran Riserva Balsamico vinegar
- 1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 2 tablespoons dried basil
- 1 (16-ounce) can white kidney beans, drained
- 1 (16-ounce) can red kidney beans, drained
- 1 (10-ounce can) whole kernel corn
- 3 cups (12 ounces) shredded Jarlsberg or Jarlsberg Lite cheese

Heat oil in large saucepan and sauté onion, celery and garlic about 5 minutes. Stir in tomato sauce, vinegar, cocoa, chili powder and basil. Simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add beans and corn and simmer 15 minutes more.

Stir in 2 cups cheese. Serve chili over rice. Pass remaining cheese with desired garnishes. Serves 6.

DEATH OF MRS. BRAUN FOLLOWS PROLONGED SICKNESS

Last Tuesday, May 10th, Mrs. Pauline Braun passed away at her home on Harriett street following a prolonged sickness, during which she was confined to her home during a great part of the time.

Only a few days ago she was able to be around her home and even made trips to the Postoffice and the grocery store, but she was taken suddenly last Tuesday and quietly passed away surrounded by her children. She was 53 years 2 months and 16 days old, a native of Germany, which place she left many years ago.

Mrs. Braun had been a resident of Washington for over 20 years, and was highly esteemed by many friends who knew her principally as a fond and loving mother and a dutiful wife.

Mrs. Braun paid little attention to ladies' clubs and other such entertainments. Her home was her castle and to it she devoted all her time and attention.

She was a member of the Washington Community Church and of the Washington Improvement Club.

Her funeral was held from her home yesterday afternoon, thence to the Baptist Church on Ninth street, in Sacramento, where services were read, interment being in the City Cemetery, near her late husband, Charles Braun.

She leaves three children, Edwin, Selma and Charlie Braun, to mourn her.

Mrs. F. M. Buckingham has gone to San Francisco, where she will visit her brother, Frank Kemler.

WANDERING COUPLE BECOME INVOLVED IN QUARREL; WIFE SHOOTS AND KILLS

Last Wednesday evening about 5:30 p. m. A. Caffero, with his sister Olga, while passing the Todhunter barn at Third and Elizabeth streets, heard a revolver shot and on investigation discovered John Greenhouse bleeding to death from a bullet wound in his right temple.

His wife, Edna Greenhouse, lay sobbing over the wounded body, weeping hysterically because she claimed she had accidentally wounded her husband.

Greenhouse was taken to the emergency hospital in Sacramento where he was given first aid, but on removal to the County Hospital he died about 6:30 p. m.

Mrs. Greenhouse made the following statement to the authorities:

"We were quarreling, first over my suspicion that he wanted to meet another girl, then over what we would have for supper. To scare him, I pulled a revolver from the bureau drawer.

"He was 10 feet away then. I thought he started for me. I didn't mean to shoot him, but the gun exploded and he fell, with a gaping wound in his temple from which the blood gushed in torrents.

"This nauseated me. I took some rags and with my finger stuffed them into the hole in his head to stop the terrible flow of blood."

The foregoing was the story of last night's shooting of John Greenhouse, as told to authorities by Edna Greenhouse, his 19-year-old wife. District Attorney McDonald conducted the inquisition at the Yolo County jail, where she is held.

"I just suspected him of wanting to meet someone," she continued. "I did not suspect any particular woman, but when I accused him we started to quarrel. Then, as I was getting supper, he suggested that we have ice cream for supper, and said he would run down to the store to get it.

"Then I accused him of going there to meet some other girl. We quarreled harder than ever, and during this, I got the gun. God knows, I didn't mean to kill him."

The Greenhouse family were treated very kindly by Constable Buckingham and his daughter about two weeks ago.

They arrived in this neighborhood in what appeared to be a destitute condition and traveling in a camp wagon drawn by one horse.

They were arrested after having been found pilfering from the home of Antonio Mercedo, but he refused to prosecute because he believed them suffering from hunger.

Constable Buckingham took them in, giving them clothing and something to eat. He also found work for the husband, and even begged the Independent to be lenient with the couple so that he might not lose his job.

Subsequent to the shooting a receipt was found among their possessions for the payment of a safe deposit box in the Merchants National Bank of Los Angeles where the woman admitted she had $203 in one package and $647 in another, together with liberty bonds and war savings stamps amounting to about $1,000.

Mrs. Greenhouse admitted that her husband had made a will which is now in the Los Angeles safe deposit box.

Accused of shooting her husband, she admitted to the authorities she fired the shot but did not intend to kill.

An inquest will be held Saturday morning by Deputy Coroner Wilson. The preliminary trial will be held later on.

POPULAR YOUNG LADY WED IN SACRAMENTO

Last Wednesday, May 11th, Venus May D'Anis was married to Andrew Lagomarsino at St. Mary's Church, 7th and T Streets, Sacramento, by Rev. Father Taverna.

The wedding was a quiet one, attended only by a few near relatives of the contracting parties.

The event was not unexpected, because the young couple had been keeping company for some time and were only waiting for the spring time to become man and wife.

Mrs. Lagomarsino was born in Washington and educated in the public school here. She is a quiet and unassuming little lady, esteemed by all who know her.

The groom is a member of the firm of Lagomarsino & Sons at Third and J streets, Sacramento. He is an industrious and capable business man, having many business connections in the Capital City.

The young couple have gone to Yosemite Valey for their honeymoon, and will likely make their home in Sacramento on their return.

Ahead in local government—

The West Sacramento City Council will meet this evening at 7 p.m. in public session at the civic center, 1110 West Capitol Avenue.

Among the agenda items are the award of a contract for a Sacramento bike lane creation; contract to Sterling Holloway III, Inc., for lead-based paint and asbestos abatement and demolition of Fire Station 41; an appeal of the Design Review Administrator's approval of Jefferson Park Apartments on at 2150 Jefferson Blvd.; and endorsement of the "Joint Recreation Facility Development Project Preliminary Report" involving the city and the school district.

Yolo County will host a public forum on the use of Proposition 63 funds in West Sacramento at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 10, at the West Sacramento library branch, 1212 Merkley Avenue. The proposition uses a tax on people making over $1 million to fund mental health programs.

West Sacramento's Housing Advisory Commission will meet on March 14 at 6 p.m. at the civic center. Agenda items will include a draft Inclusionary Housing Ordinance and an update on city plans to apply for $1.5 million in state funding for homebuyer assistance and to support creation of housing among planned mixed uses on West Capitol Avenue.

Washington Unified School District will host a public meeting on the Local Education Agency Plan on March 16 at 3:30 p.m. at River City High School's library. For more information, call 375-7604 ext. 2217.

When It's Your Investment

When you own an investment property, your goal is to get the highest monthly rental with the lowest vacancy rate, and keep quality tenants. How do you pull it all together?

It pays to keep your property in good location, both when trying to rent it and after tenants move in. Keeping it in top condition helps the tenants want to stay a while. When something needs to be repaired, make sure they know who to call to get the job done. Arrange for periodic inspections to check for leaking roof or pipes, defective wiring or malfunctioning appliances. If you are an absentee landlord, it makes sense to hire professionals to keep a close eye on your investment for you.
